

LOOK AT A KERNEL OF COFFEE

Break it and note how much of it is chaff. It is this chaff that contains the unpleasant astringent principle (tannin), on account of which coffee drinking does not agree with some people.

Barrington Hall The Steel Coffee

You will taste the difference in the first cupful: The chaff has been removed from this coffee by a wonderful steel-cutting process. Packed by machinery in sealed tins—it is the only pure coffee, free from dust and tannin-bearing chaff.

NEWS OF OREGON AND THE NORTHWEST.

HEMBREE TRIAL MAY END SOON

DEFENSE MADE THEIR PRESENTATION OF CASE YESTERDAY—IT WILL PROBABLY GO TO JURY TODAY—LOOKS BAD FOR HIM

TILLAMOOK, Ore., July 28.—The prosecution closed its case in the trial of A. J. Hembree, charged with the murder of his wife and 16-year-old daughter on the night of December 29 last, in their home at Sand Lake, yesterday evening, and the defense began the presentation of its case at the opening of the session today. The case will probably go to the jury this evening. Hembree may be placed on the stand in his own defense before the close.

Cross-examinations by the defense at yesterday's trial failed to break down any of the testimony given by the state's witnesses and their statements made the case against Hembree stronger. Drs. I. N. Smith and C. H. Upton testified that the bones were those of human beings, and that his opinion was the skull of one of the women had been crushed before being placed in the stove. The stove in which the bones were found was presented as evidence in court.

Mrs. Hembree's brother-in-law, John Lawellen, testified that the funeral was attended by more than 100 persons, but that Hembree did not go, refusing to do so, but sent his two sons.

James Atkinson, who viewed the ruined house and the skeletons a short time after discovery, told of asking Hembree why he had not extinguished the flames, and if he heard no cries from his family. Hembree replied that he had not heard a sound, and that he used two tubs of water in a vain endeavor to put out the flames. Atkinson says two full tubs of water were near the ruins. Hembree also told the witness that he knew nothing of the bones or how they came there in response to a query.

The testimony of Mrs. Allen Lawellen, a sister of Mrs. Hembree, showed that Hembree sent his two small sons to her home before the tragedy, which was something very unusual for him to do.

"A SOUTHERN ROMANCE"

Crowded House Sees Excellent Performance at Star Last Night.

The pleasure of witnessing a good performance can surely be indulged in at the Star for every performance given by Mr. Willard's Company has been a genuine treat. "A Southern Romance," has every attribute necessary to please the most fastidious of audiences, being replete with both pathos and laughter. This afternoon "A Southern Romance" will be produced again for the benefit of those who have not yet seen it, and also tonight.

For Monday night we are promised a great treat, as the celebrated play, "The Bells" which is entwined with the late Henry Irving's name, will be produced by Mr. Willard and his company, and from all reports Mr. Willard will have a wonderful interpretation of the character he will represent.

The average pretty girl can teach a man more about love than he ever knew and she generally goes about it as if she understands all there is in the game.

Bishop McQuaid of Rochester, N. Y., a Catholic prelate, says the "time will come when women will vote, and then we will see the greatest voting the world ever saw. We are not afraid of woman suffrage. Our women will save the day to us." If intelligence should be the basis of suffrage then women are more entitled to the right of voting than men, for more women are graduating from schools and colleges than men.

S. P. IS PREPARING TO MAKE BIG IMPROVEMENTS.

JUNCTION CITY, Ore., July 28.—The S. P. Company is preparing to make great improvements in its roadbed between Marion and Divide, in Southern Oregon, and has a crew of surveyors now at work measuring the bridges and culverts. The company will widen the roadbed on top to a width of 18 feet. At present the grade is so narrow on top that in many places the ties reach to the outer side of the grade. By making the roadbed wider it will permit more rapid running of heavy trains. It will require thousands of carloads of gravel to make this improvement. The company has a gravel bed at the Harrisburg bridge, and has recently purchased another bed near Eugene.

RAILWAY TALK DELIGHTS CITIZENS OF ALBANY

ALBANY, Ore., July 28.—Albany people are delighted with the apparently authoritative report that the Corvallis & Eastern Railroad will be built across the mountains into Eastern Oregon next Spring. They have waited many years for this announcement, knowing the construction of the road would mean great things for this city, but many rumors have proved groundless. At last their hope is apparently to be realized.

The Minto Pass, to which the road now extends and through which it will cross to Eastern Oregon, is the best pass in the entire length of the Cascade range in Oregon. There a road can cross the mountains on an easy grade.

VICTORY FOR STEVEDORES.

ABERDEEN, July 28.—The temporary injunction brought by the Gray's Harbor Stevedoring Company against the Sailor's and Longshoremen's unions, was made permanent by Judge Irwin at Montesano, before whom the case was argued. By the terms of the injunction no member of either organization may interfere in any way with the men in the employ of the Stevedoring Company. The injunction is made to apply individually and collectively against the members of both unions.

Mary had a little lamb,
And when she saw it sicken
She shipped it off to Packerstown,
And now it's labeled chicken.

William J. Bryan is neither rich nor poor financially. His property holdings in the suburbs of Lincoln, Neb., are valued at 50,000 and his downtown property at 222,000. The value of his bank stock and personal property is not given.

Through the vigorous influence of President Roosevelt the Senate has at last adopted the lock system for the Panama canal. The House was already favorable to the lock type, as cheaper and more practicable than the sea-level type. To have dug a canal down to sea-level across the isthmus would have required many years and involved millions of extra expense.

An Amherst professor says the men of the future will be a race of weaklings if present educational methods are not changed. He insists that there must be more manual labor and less book work. If he can persuade anybody to work with his hands simply for the purpose of giving some future man a strong constitution he will be entitled to all the medals available and a bus relief, at least.

The value of the water products taken and sold by United States fishermen in 1905 was approximately $56,250,000 and this sum is exclusive of the considerable fisheries of insular position and the immense quantities of fish taken for home consumption and by sportsmen. The number of persons who make a livelihood in this industry is about 233,000 and the capital invested exceeds $82,000,000.

APPEARANCES

Often a person is sized up by his appearance; by the tone that surrounds him. And more often a business house is sized up by the stationary it uses. A cheap letter head or a poor bill head gives a mighty poor first impression and makes business harder to transact. Good printing costs no more than poor printing. The first impression is half the battle in business. You wouldn't employ a "sloppy" salesman; why put up with "sloppy" stationery, that gives a wrong impression of the importance of your business. Let us do your printing and help you to make that ten strike.
